

TAO GROUP SUPPORT'S LOCAL YOUTH FOOTBALL

TAO Group sponsor's The Cirencester Town Football Club Under 12 team for the forthcoming 2007/08 season.

At a presentation on Sunday 23rd September; TAO's Managing Director, Andy Cotton, presented a new kit to the boys prior to an away match against Swindon's Old Town Under 12 squad.

Andy Cotton said " we got involved when my nephew Jordan; who plays for Cirencester Town FC, asked me, he is such a lover of football it just seemed the right thing to help out. I played when I was a kid and now when time allows I love to go and watch my nephews Jordan & Bradley play."

TAO Group has a history of working with football on a larger more international scale following recent television productions of 'The Alan Ball Memorial Cup' live from the new MK Stadium for Sky One Television.

In 2006, TAO managed and produced The Legends England vs Germany for Channel Five Television a match famed for the now legendary tackle by British MP, Boris Johnson on the unfortunate German International Maurizio Gaudino; a tackle that was in the Top 10 'YouTube' downloads of 2006.

The Legend's match saw Andy again team up with his nephew when Jordan took the field as a mascot for England, lining up here with England & Manchester United's Neil Webb, along with Eastenders Nigel Harmen, The Verve's Richard Ashcroft and Ex England & Spurs star Chris Waddle.
